Hi Callie, I really like your current style and color you are using for the site. I have listed several areas of improvement.

1. The cat footprint makes me feel like a button I can click on. Maybe you can consider using the footprint as the button for home page?
2. I am seeing three typefaces if I am correct. I feel like the font for the title "British Shorthair" can be more decorative like the font of "meet the." The current typeface is working but I just feel like there may be other options that are better.
3. Should work more on responsiveness. There is a point where text is overlapped
